I have been thinking some more about the layout of the workshop and really think that it is getting very diluted and broad. I really think we need to drill down and spend most of our time on some very specific questions on which we have been struggling for a long time and want input. As it stands, there will be very little time for in depth deliberations. I will follow up more specifically but in the meantime I heard that Paul White will be gone for a while beginning tomorrow. He has had conversations with Appling and Hecht during the time when we were discussing the endogenous issues, and has thought about the measurement issues in great depth, so I am forwarding this to him. It would be nice to get his feedback before he leaves.

Paul, I am attaching the workshop planning.

Ravi.

Hello team et al.

Here is the draft agenda for the workshop, revised as of our team meeting this week. Ravi should be happy. Please look it over and think about the mix of speakers and discussants, logic of the session topics and proposed presentation topics. We will be having our first meeting with the contractor on Wed. at 1 pm.

Thanks, Barbara
